America, a country of wide-open spaces, deep forests and high mountains, quiet waters and raging rivers, offers plenty of opportunities to enjoy outdoor Scouting program.

Scouting has a long history of not only enjoying the outdoors but also caring for the health of these outdoor spaces, working to avoid unnecessary impacts, minimizing those that cannot be avoided, and restoring the damaged caused by overuse.

Today, the BSA program that employees this type of outdoor care is “Outdoor Ethics”. Within this program is the principles of Leave No Trace which help us to make good caring judgments whenever we recreate in the outdoors.

The Boy Scouts of America is committed to implementing Leave No Trace at all program levels.

Training

The BSA is actively training Leave No Trace Master Educators to teach Scouters everywhere to become Leave No Trace Trainers.

Trainers and Master Educators work with their Council Outdoor Ethics Advocate to conduct the many programs designed to teach everyone in the Scouting movement the skills and ethics of Leave No Trace.

Summit Bechtel Reserve BSA Master Educator Course Front Country, non-Trek Format

This option does not require hiking long distances and may not breaking camp each day.

This BSA Leave No Trace Master Educator Course provides participants with comprehensive training in Leave No Trace skills and ethics, instruction and practice on effective teaching methods, and information on the important role of outdoor ethics in scouting’s outdoor programs.

This 5-day course features a day of classroom instruction at the Summit, 3 days and nights of immersive practical application in a variety of "frontcountry" settings designed to replicate typical Scouting outdoor programs.

A major goal for this course is to graduate effective and active Leave No Trace Master Educators who will return to their home council and conduct the key Leave No Trace Trainer courses needed to support their unit, district, and council outdoor programs.
